Week 5:

This week I completed 5 courses and added them to LinkedIn. These 5 completed courses were thanks to the fact that PLATZI offered a free weekend for their classes with certification, this due to the "GOOD END", I only shared that because as it was a weekend intense week, I ended up tired to enter linkedin.

Week 6, Last week:

This week I completed a course, but the important difference from the other previous courses is that this one is 23 hours, this course was already more specialized and was through UDEMY, and I added it to LinkedIn, I also shared 1 post so that LinkedIn continued to have views Also, since it would be the last publication before submitting my evidence, what I did was share a publication about what I like, in addition to being related to my engineering, which was from the great and famous company TESLA, which is about introduction of your new vehicle, also as you can see in my statistics compared to the last time, it is that in this you can see that I obtained an increase in views of my profile, and also the appearances in searches, although the impressions in Publications decreased does not mean that it is bad, it is just that now I have a more select audience related to my engineering.
